Tax Reduction Plan Begins to Assume Form

Administration Leaders Believe Six Principal Recommendations to Congress for Tax Reduction Will Meet With General Agreement—Democrats May Balk at Two.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 4.—The $850,000,000 tax reduction program which the Republicans will sponsor early in the new congress and endeavor to put through in record time began to emerge from the mists of conference and discussion today and to assume definite form.

As now envisioned by administration leaders, the tax program will be based upon six principal recommendations, as follows:

1. Repeal of the publicity clause affecting income taxes.
2. Elimination of the so-called "luxury" taxes, relics of the war, and including the tax on automobile accessories, theater tickets, club dues, etc.

3. Reduction of the maximum surtax on big incomes from its present figure of 40 per cent to 20 per cent.

4. Reduction of the normal tax on incomes up to $5,000 from the present rate of 2 per cent to 1 per cent, with corresponding reductions progressively upward.

5. Elimination of the Federal inheritance and gift taxes on the ground that this field of taxation properly belongs to the states and not to the Federal government.

6. Reduction of the present corporation tax 12 1/2 per cent.

There are many other features of the Republican program yet to be worked out, but on the foregoing six there is general agreement, and they may be said to constitute the framework of the plan.

Under this plan, it is hoped to avoid any serious conflict between the proponents of slashing reductions on "big" and "little" incomes. If sponsors will point out that the small salary man gets proportionately the same out of the millionaire, in each instance it amounts to one-half, the millionaire's tax being cut from 40 to 20 per cent and the poor man's from 2 to 1 per cent.

It is likely that the Democrats will go along with the administration on at least four of the points contained in this outline. The two proposals at which they probably will balk, according to the Democratic spokesmen now in Washington, are those proposing repeal of the publicity clause, and elimination of the Federal inheritance and gift taxes.

The Republicans themselves are not unified on these points. Chairman William R. Green of the house ways and means committee, who will have a major part in framing the final draft of the bill, is staunchly opposed to eliminating the inheritance and gift taxes. The Democrats are split on it, the conservatives favoring it and the progressives opposing it.

MOONLIGHT GARDEN PARTY FOR ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The beautiful flower gardens of Mrs. Washburn and Mrs. Sweet, 15-32 West Chestnut street, are to be the scene of a delightful Moonlight Garden Party, to be held on Wednesday evening by the parishioners of St. John's Church.

Flowers and plants in full bloom, in these lovely gardens, with their terraces overlooking the Hudson, are well worth seeing. Miss Sheldon will play selections on the harp and a stringed orchestra will render concert music during the evening.

One of the features of the party will be the fortune tellers in costume, presiding in their booths. Miss Sarah Horton is chairman of the committee on arrangements and she is assisted by a corps of efficient workers who are planning a most enjoyable evening for all who attend. In case of rain on Wednesday evening, the party will be held on the following evening at the same place. Refreshments will be served during the evening by young ladies of the parish.

CLUSTER COUNTY MEN PASS EXAMINATION FOR GUARD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Aug. 4. (Special).—Col. O. Davenport, 17 Church street, Elmville, stands first on a recently established state civil service list for the position of guard, state institutions for defective delinquents, salary from $1,915 to $1,315 and maintenance.

Others from Elmville who passed are: Edward G. Bolin, 22 Market street; Alonzo Brackman, 14 Center street; Ed V. Krom, 205 Center street; Byron G. Lowe, 4 Linden street; Edward J. Rosenberger, 14 Burnside street; Charles E. Clearwater, 212 Canal street; Ernest A. Surr, 2 Maple street; Les S. Robinson, 1111 Center street; Richard G. Brown, 144 Main street; Harry G. Edwards, 14 Canal street.

Others who passed from Ulster county are Chester Gray and Richard E. Hayden, Kerhousen; Cornelius E. Brown and Frank J. Beckman, Newburgh.

Heretics At West Park.

Snell Denies All Charges

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Sweeping denial of all charges made against him was contained in a noon statement issued today by Congressman Bertram H. Snell of Potsdam, breaking his silence for the first time since his sister-in-law, Mrs. Kimball J. Snell of Syracuse, filed suit for $400,000 against him for alienation of her husband's affection.

Mrs. Snell is now in Syracuse but her attorney, Frank E. Young, refuses to disclose her address. Her husband, who is a brother of the congressman, also is in Syracuse attempting to locate his wife.

In his statement made in an affidavit form, Congressman Snell said: "Ever since her marriage with the defendant's brother, deponent as treated plaintiff with the utmost consideration and respect; that at no time has he ever sought to induce her husband, Kimball J. Snell, to desert plaintiff; that at no time or place, has he ever attempted to induce plaintiff to desert her husband; that he has never, at any time, offered money to induce plaintiff to remove from Potsdam, and live elsewhere; that he has never paid Kimball J. Snell money or made promise of gifts to induce him to abandon plaintiff."

"That he has never, at any time sought to alienate the affections of the said Kimball J. Snell for his wife; that he has never made any representations to persons at Potsdam or elsewhere, that the plaintiff was an unfit person to be the wife of Kimball J. Snell; that he has never entertained the slightest ill will or feeling against the said plaintiff."

"That he has always, and under all circumstances, encouraged the said Kimball J. Snell to reside with plaintiff at Potsdam; that at all time and on all occasions, he has advised the said Kimball Snell to reside with plaintiff as husband and wife, and on no occasion has he ever advised said Kimball J. Snell to act or conduct himself toward the plaintiff other than as a dutiful husband."

"That in order to provide means for such trip this deponent agreed to advance Kimball J. Snell the sum of $300 per month for the support of himself and plaintiff; that such sum was regularly paid thereafter, beginning October 2, 1924, and continued up to the commencement of this action; that shortly after such arrangements were made deponent left his home at Potsdam and thereafter had no knowledge that plaintiff was living separate and apart from her husband until the service of the summons and complaint in this action, which occurred on tenth day of April, 1925, the night before he sailed for Europe from New York."

SPECIFICATIONS FILED OF ALLEGED PERJURY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Boston, Mass., Aug. 4.—The state of Massachusetts today took action in the case of Mrs. Ina Manning Blankenburg of Tulsa, Okla., claimant to the Lotta Crabtree millions as a "daughter" who is accused of perjury and branded as a "brazen adventuress" by Judge William Prest of probate court.

When Mrs. Blankenburg came to court today to show cause why she should not be adjudged in contempt of court for perjury, Assistant Attorney General Fuller Weston filed eighteen pages of typewritten specifications alleging perjury by the woman who claims she is the child of the late famous actress.

In order to give her attorneys time to examine the specifications, the case was continued until Thursday.

Mrs. Blankenburg, who had left her hotel here, had been reported as "missing" but she appeared in court today ready to fight the charges made against her. Two lawyers represented her in court today.

The state is interested in the case of Mrs. Blankenburg not only because of the legal aspect but because a public trust is involved in the Crabtree will. Assistant Attorney General Weston had been a constant attendant at the probate court hearing during the recital of the claims of Mrs. Blankenburg.

Mrs. Blankenburg asserted that Lotta Crabtree married an actor in England, that she (Mrs. Blankenburg) was the daughter and that she was brought up in the Middle West where she had been left by the late actress.

ALBANY DEMOCRATS ENDORSE HACKETT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 4.—While Republican leaders today were trying to find some member of their party who would accept the mayoralty nomination, Democratic leaders unanimously endorsed Mayor William S. Hackett for a third term.

Mayor Hackett was the first Democrat to be elected mayor of this city in twenty years. He is president of the State Conference of Mayors.

Republican leaders recently endorsed Frank B. Graves, manufacturer, for mayor, but he refused to be a candidate.

Cars Slightly Damaged.

A Williams-Knight, license number 11312, owned by Mrs. White of the Up-To-Date Company and driven by a chauffeur, and an Overland car, license 291559 from Lexington, collided at the corner of Fair street and Pearl street this morning. The damage to both cars was slight.

Raccoons and Foxes Set Free At Forsyth Park

Vandals Monday Night Broke Open Cages and Animals Escaped—Loss of Animals Discovered and Reported to Police.

If you happen to see two foxes and several raccoons at large in the city streets, do not shoot them as they are members of the city zoo at Forsyth Park.

Some time after 10 o'clock Monday night vandals, at present unknown, broke open the lock on the fox cage and freed the two foxes. They also slashed the wire on the two raccoon cages and loosed the raccoons.

The act of vandalism was not discovered until this morning when the keeper went to feed the animals and found that the cages had been broken into and were empty. The matter was promptly reported to the police department, who are making an investigation.

For several years past the board of public works, who have charge of the city parks, have been acquiring a zoo at Forsyth Park which proved of great interest to the many visitors during the summer months.

The large number of children visiting the park have been especially attracted by the animals and the loss will be keenly felt by them. One of the foxes now at liberty had been an inmate of the park zoo for five years.

The monkey cage was not tampered with or was the enclosure to the deer park disturbed. It is thought that the vandals were frightened away before they could commit further mischief.

If the persons who perpetrated the act of vandalism are caught they will be severely dealt with.

Accident Cases At Benedictine

Walter Gabaiski Has Broken Leg When Horse Fell on Him—Edward Whalen's Leg Broken When He Fell From Truck—Viola Dixon Beaten by Husband.

Walter Gabaiski of Lucas avenue is at the Benedictine Hospital with a broken right leg sustained Monday when a horse fell on him. He is being attended by Dr. John G. O'Leary.

Edward Whalen of Fair street fell from a truck on Monday and was removed to the Benedictine Hospital to have an X-ray taken to ascertain the extent of his injuries. It was found that he had sustained a broken left leg. Later he was removed to his home.

Viola Dixon of East Kingston was brought to the Benedictine Hospital Monday night from injuries which she sustained when beaten by Calvin Dixon, who was lodged in the county jail last evening by State Troopers. The alleged assault occurred on Rose Brothers' brickyard. Dixon is charged with assault in the third degree. Viola later left the hospital.

Other Cases Convalescing.

Helen Long, who lives on R. F. 3, Kingston, was operated upon this morning at the Benedictine Hospital for tonsillitis and adenoids by Drs. O'Mara and Downer.

Mr. and Mrs. Waltman, injured in an automobile accident on Sunday, were reported improving this noon, as was Samuel Cornogold.

Miss Rose Samuels of Fleischmanns is reported as convalescing. LeBaron Griffin of Catskill, who underwent an operation one day last week for stone in the kidneys, is convalescing.

SHULTIS AT BENEDICTINE FOLLOWING ACCIDENT.

Frank Shultis of Kelly's Corner is in the Benedictine Hospital suffering from severe cuts about the face and legs. Shultis, while riding his motorcycle at the above place, had a head-on collision with an automobile, resulting in Shultis being thrown to the roadway and receiving severe lacerations. The occupants of the car were uninjured. The motorcycle was damaged. The accident occurred this morning. Shultis being conveyed to the Benedictine this afternoon.

Cars Damaged in Collision.

About 12 o'clock today, there was a collision between a Ford runabout, owned by a Mr. Josephs of Cedar street, and a touring car of L. S. Wine driven by George Duncan, at the corner of St. James and Wall streets. In the Josephs car, besides the driver, was one woman and two children. No one was hurt but the Ford car was quite badly wrecked. The Wine car was slightly damaged.

Business Certificate Filed.

A certificate has been filed with the Ulster county clerk under the assumed business name law by Ferdinand H. Gildersleeve and Henry A. Keator, both of Roosevelt street, that they are conducting a business on that street under the name and style "Kingston Riding Academy."

Brogan Was Fined $10.

William Brogan of Saucerties was gassed for Monday night by the police for public intoxication. The morning he was fined $10 in police court. He paid.

Harry Saunders May Not Live

Sergeant Phinney Takes His Antemortem Statement—Condition Is Very Critical—Was Stabbed by Robert K. Hutton.

At noon today the condition of Harry Saunders, World War veteran, stabbed early Sunday evening with the two and one-half inch blade of a jackknife by Robert K. Hutton, brick manufacturer, in a quarrel on Downs street, was so critical that the police department was notified and Sergeant Phinney hurried over to the Benedictine Hospital and took Saunders's antemortem statement.

Saunders at noon had a very high temperature and pulse and his general condition was much weaker. Monday afternoon his condition was fairly good but during the night he gradually grew worse and his condition is such that but small hopes are held for his ultimate recovery.

The wound inflicted by Hutton was the twenty-third wound that Saunders had received in his brief career of thirty odd years.

This afternoon Saunders took a serious turn for the worse, having a severe hemorrhage of the left lung. Saunders is also known to many in this city as Harry Saunders.

Coal Conference On Eve of Break

Open Rupture Seems Likely as Heads of Miners and Operators Dispute Over Absence of Each Other and Powers of Respective Committees.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 4.—Unless the present personnel of the operators' negotiating committee at the coal conference here is displaced by men "with power to act" leaders of the United Mine Workers of America will withdraw from the joint conference of anthracite mine operators and workers, it was reported this afternoon just before today's session was to open.

John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, conferred with union district heads, the reports said, and it was determined that unless Samuel D. Warriner receded from his stand regarding retention of the present sub-committee personnel, the conference would come to a sudden end this afternoon.

The next move is up to Lewis and he is expected to make it when the sessions are resumed at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Then he will likely give his answer to the letter sent him last night by Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference, which bluntly stated that there would be no change in the personnel of the operators' sub-committee that has been conferring with the miners' representatives since July 9.

Lewis had notified Warriner that this committee had no power to act, that his representatives were being forced to deal with "subordinates" and that, as a result, the conference was a "farce."

Warriner promptly replied that the operators reserved the right, as did the miners, to say who should represent them. He further declared that the operators' sub-committee was "fully authorized to represent and speak for the anthracite industry." He urged that the matters in dispute be referred to a "board of impartial persons" for determination, and declared that if a strike is developed the blame should not be charged to the operators.

Lewis, who himself has been refraining from attending the conference, had demanded the appearance at the conference of Warriner and William J. Richards, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Corporation. Both Warriner and Richards are veterans of conferences of previous years and are recognized leaders in the industry.

Bryan's Plea Saved Darrow

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Dayton, Tenn., Aug. 4.—Clarence Darrow can thank William Jennings Bryan that he was not punished for contempt of court in the Dayton evolution trial.

This was revealed by Judge John T. Raulston today. When Bryan was informed that his distinguished legal opponent had been cited, he went to Judge Raulston and said: "Have mercy on him, judge."

"And I did," said the judge. The regular August term of the Rhea county court was opened with memorial services for Bryan, at which Judge Raulston and the attorneys spoke brief eulogies of the champion.

Judge Raulston told the attorneys that court might last only this week as he had accepted an invitation to address a fundamental meeting in Chicago next Monday.

Charged With Assault.

Calvin Brown of East Kingston was brought to the Ulster county jail Monday night by State Trooper Mettler, to be held to await a hearing on a charge of assault before Judge Webber at Flatbush, town of Ulster.

Dry Agents Must Stop Killing Innocent People

Will Be Permitted to Fire on Automobiles Only Provided They Are Certain Occupants Are Bootleggers—Families of Innocent Victims Have No Redress.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 4.—Aroused by reports of the killing of several persons recently during prohibition raids, steps will be taken by the Federal government to curb the indiscriminate use of firearms by dry agents. It was learned at the treasury today.

General L. C. Andrews, dry czar, was expected to issue orders to all agents that firearms must be employed only in self defense or in extreme cases.

Every effort will be taken by the new prohibition organization to protect the lives of innocent persons, it was said. Over-zealous agents who in the past have fired on suspects who later proved to be law-abiding citizens will be curbed.

Rigorous precautions will be taken to avoid accidental killings, especially in the cities and along much travelled highways. Agents will be permitted to fire on automobiles only provided they are certain the occupants are bootleggers and should there be no danger of injuring innocent persons.

The customs border patrol and other agencies operating in little populated areas, however, will be permitted more latitude in law enforcement. The campaign against smugglers requires the use of firearms, according to officials.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment today announced that a campaign to require the bonding of prohibition agents and to compel those operating on public highways to wear easily identified uniforms will be carried to Congress in December.

It is asserted that more than twenty innocent persons have been killed as the result of dry raids in the last two years, and that the lives of the victims had no financial recourse. It was pointed out that the government cannot be made defendant in a damage suit and that few of the agents have property.

Invoke Cell Shock To Save Slayer

New Mental Malady Invented by Attorneys for Russell Scott to Be Denied by Jail Mates and Experts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Chicago, Aug. 4.—Cell shock, the new mental malady invented by attorneys for Russell Scott in the hope they will save the convicted slayer from the gallows, was to be the basis of a struggle of lay witnesses and alienists in the sanity hearing before Judge Joseph B. David today.

This new form of insanity is ridiculed by State's Attorney Rittenhouse, who is conducting the case for the state.

"In two previous efforts to save Scott, nothing was said of his insanity," Rittenhouse told the jury in his opening statement, which followed that of William Scott Stewart, representing Scott.

Fairly to meet their claim of insanity we have sought to have Scott examined by our doctors, and he told them that on advice of his lawyers he would not submit to an examination. They were unable to make a complete one.

"But we can answer them by calling as witnesses here every man in the jail who has had anything to do with this man, and we intend to prove to you jurors that he is not insane."

An indication of what Scott's lawyers will seek to prove was furnished by Stewart in his jury talk. He spoke on delusions of persecution, which is a symptom of paranoia insanity, say experts. Alienists who examined Scott at the request of his attorneys will tell of these delusions and of other symptoms when they are called to the stand, Stewart said.

Mrs. Rilla Scott, mother of Russell Scott, was the first witness called today when the insanity hearing was resumed before Judge David. She was excused after Judge David refused to permit her to testify "as to the birth of her son" declaring the condition of the prisoner prior to February 14, 1923, did not enter into the case.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES PRICE REDUCTION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—Announcement of a price reduction effective August 1 on Chevrolet closed models has been made. The revised price list is as follows: Coupe reduced $40 to a new price of $475; Coach reduced $40 to a new price of $495; sedan reduced $50 to a new price of $555.

The Chevrolet Motor Company will have opened by August 29 its total production for the year of 1924 after having established production records for three consecutive months. The company will make its two millionth car this fall, and will be first manufacturer of three-speed open-top cars to reach that production mark.

Republicans Hold City Caucuses

Delegates Selected to Attend City Convention—Candidates Recommended for Nomination for Supervisors and Aldermen.

Caucuses were held in the various wards of the city of Kingston Monday evening when five delegates in each ward were chosen to attend a Republican city convention to be held at the Ulster county court house on Tuesday evening, August 11, at 8 o'clock. DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP NETS BANDITS LARGE SUM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 4.—While hundreds of pedestrians strolled by outside, five bandits performed a daring daylight hold-up in the pawnshop of Patrick E. Clancy at 473 Grand street today. They escaped with $1,100 in cash and $50,000 in jewelry after tying up Clancy and two of his clerks with clothes line and forcing a woman customer into the back room at the point of a pistol.

No witnesses saw the men enter the shop, and none saw them leave. No machine was in evidence that might have been used by the hold-up men.

One of the clerks, Matthew Hellywood, 50, was sleeping on the sidewalk when the first of the bandits entered the shop. He was dressed as a painter and asked John Ryan, 22, another clerk, to show him some paint brushes. Clancy was taking jewelry out of the safe at the time.

City Dump Pests Are Croton Bugs, Says Dr. Felt

State Entomologist Writes Kingston Resident as to Identity of Manor Place Cockroaches and Explains How They Can Be Exterminated.

Last week a Kingston resident obtained a few of the bugs infesting the Manor Place city dump and sent them to Dr. Felt, state entomologist, asking him what kind of bugs they were. Dr. Felt in reply has written the following interesting letter:

Yours of the 25th ult., is at hand and the accompanying specimens prove to be croton bugs or water bugs, one of the smallest, most abundant and pestiferous of the cockroaches, three species—all introduced—of which occur rather commonly in this country and are frequently serious nuisances in dwellings.

The croton bugs and other cockroaches which are all introduced upon a great variety of vegetable and animal substances. The refuse scraps of the sink, the food on the pantry shelves, prepared cereals, woolsens, the leather of stuffed furniture or books, the sizing or paste of cloth-bound books and similar materials are all acceptable to these disgusting scavengers. Occasionally these insects become established in city dumps, living upon organic wastes and invading nearby dwellings in enormous numbers.

It is difficult to indicate the most successful method of handling the situation without information as to the size of the proposition. The insects can be destroyed by spraying with gasoline or other oils, but the difficulty is to get the material throughout the entire mass of a dump. If the deposit was not too deep, it might be possible and most economical to pull it over and scorch or kill everything living by the use of a giant flame torch, as it were. The latter can be improvised from the ordinary extension nozzle of the orchardist which is little more than a slender iron pipe eight or ten feet long with an atomizing nozzle, familiar to all sprayers, at the extremity. A pump, hose connection and a supply of any crude oil is all that is necessary. Simply start the pump going and when the spray issues from the nozzle project it on to a flaming piece of paper and at once you have a very effective blow torch capable of projecting a flame three to five feet, something depending on the size of the nozzle and the pressure.

Steaming the pile, if that were possible, first covering it with canvas or some such protective material, would destroy thousands and if the dump was not too large would be economical and effective.

A new insecticide has come on the market recently known as calcium cyanide, which is admirably adapted for conditions such as you describe, though it may prove to be somewhat expensive. It is manufactured by the American Cyanamid Company, 511 Fifth avenue, New York city, and it is my opinion that members of the firm would be very pleased to examine your proposition and advise as to the best method of dealing with the situation. It is only necessary to distribute the calcium cyanide rather freely over the dump and many of the cockroaches will succumb from the poisonous gas which is slowly liberated. This work is most effective when reasonably dry conditions prevail and here likewise covering with canvas would greatly increase the efficiency of the treatment. It may be stated, furthermore, that calcium cyanide is being used very successfully for the destruction of ground hogs or woodchucks, prairie dogs and the like in their burrows, and there is no reason why it should not be equally successful in eliminating the pests of the dump.

The abundance of cockroaches on a dump is dependent in large measure upon the supply of organic matter and it may prove advisable in the future to carefully sort dump material, making some satisfactory disposition of the organic wastes and thus avoid a repetition of this difficulty.

If I can be of further service, do not hesitate to advise me. Very truly yours, E. P. FELT, State Entomologist.

Katterman and Mitchell Outing

The annual outing of the Katterman and Mitchell Company employes was held Saturday, August 1, at Golden Rule Inn where a very enjoyable day was spent in games, dancing and eating. The employes left the silk mill about 9:45 a. m. in a caravan of about 20 autos and arrived at the Inn where dancing was enjoyed until 11:30 a. m.

A very delicious chicken dinner was served by Miss Host Kuntz at 3 p. m., which was the best ever and enjoyed by all as the plates went back empty. The menu consisted of clam cocktail, relish, vegetable soup, fried fillet of sole, tartar sauce, roast chicken, sweet corn on cob, fresh string beans, mashed potatoes, salad de luxe waldorf, coffee, tea, milk, cake or pie a la mode.

At 11:30 a. m. the athletic events started and prizes were awarded to those taking first place and those finishing second. These prizes included georgette crepe, crepe de chine, canton crepe and flat crepe ribbons all woven in the Kingston mill. The results of the athletic events were as follows:

Poultry Culling Service in Use

Ulster County Farm Bureau Secures
Help of Experts and Arranges
County Schedule for Week of August 17-22.

The poultry culling service which the Ulster County Farm Bureau makes available to all poultry owners in the county, is proving each year to be of great benefit to farmers and each year a larger number use this service. To date over 3,000 birds have been culled by Raymond DuBois of Forest Glen as compared with 2,000 at this time last year. In addition to the 3,000 already culled, 10,000 more will be examined during August and September.

Assisting Mr. DuBois with the work this year is H. M. Summers, of the Cornell poultry department. Mr. Summers will work here during the week of August 17 to 22, and will follow a schedule prepared by the Farm Bureau officials. On Monday, August 17, Mr. Summers will be in Northonkon community; on Tuesday, August 18, in Accord; on Wednesday, August 19, in Hurley and West Hurley; on Thursday, August 20, in Flatbush; on Friday, August 21, in Kingston; and on Saturday, August 22, has not been made.

Any poultryman or poultry keeper in the county is in position to take advantage of this service by getting in touch with the Farm Bureau committee in his community or with the Farm Bureau headquarters at Kingston. The service costs the owner two cents per bird handled, with a minimum fee of $2.50. The cost is almost trifling compared to benefits derived in having the unprofitable birds removed.

Our Growing Population.

Plants That Protect Coasts From the Sea

In the struggle to defend our coasts from sea encroachments, seaside authorities have no better allies than the hardy tamarisk and shrubby sea blite. These useful plants are as effective in protecting the lonely stretches of our shores as stout sea walls and far-flung groynes, says a writer in London Tit-Bits. Take, for example, Shoreham, on the Sussex coast. This town was seriously affected by the incoming tides until it was found that the loose shingle that fringes the sea could be bound into a resisting mass by the extensive planting of tamarisk, a hardy little plant whose only real enemy is severe frost.

On the Norfolk coast the same method is adopted, but there the shifting shingle is bound with shrubby sea blite, which grows waist high and covers large areas of the coast. The more this plant is ill-treated the stouter it flourishes. Occasionally a violent storm will result in the shrubs being completely embedded in fresh shingle thrown up by the waves. This, in reality, is an advantage, as the plant puts forth new shoots that bind the fresh stones, still further strengthening the land rampart.

Jumper Grows Longer and May Reach Knees

And still they come, these little three-piece frocks, each more delightful than the one before and each revealing some new and tricky detail that lends it distinction and unmistakable cachet.

In the later versions of this most popular mode the jumper is noticeably longer, in some instances reaching well to the knees. Below this the skirt is plaited or cut to flare in a circular fashion. Frequently the skirt is in contrast to the upper part and models which feature a jumper of plain flat crepe and a skirt of printed crepe de chine are unusually smart and attractive.

For midsummer country wear there are fascinating frocks made of wash silk in plaided or striped designs. In these the long jumper shows the stripes running crosswise, while on the skirt they are up and down. Others reveal a vertical arrangement of stripes on both jumper and skirts.

Dickens' Famous Speech

At an annual banquet, which is noted for the high level of its speech-making and where many famous orators have been heard, Charles Dickens, in the last year of his life, was asked to respond for literature. The theme of his speech was the recent death of MacDill. One who was present writes: "A deathlike stillness came over the great room, and sobs were not the only cries that were filled with tears." So moved was the audience that at the close of Dickens' speech they rose from the table, and no other speech was delivered that night.

English Bloody Assizes

In the bloody Assizes of 1835, as the so-called trials for participation in Mumukshu's rebellion against James II are called, over 300 innocent persons were executed. Baron Jeffries presided at these travesties on justice.

In a New Role

Mary Pickford, the motion picture actress, took the witness stand to give evidence at the trial of three men charged with plotting to kidnap her and other screen folk and hold them for ransom.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS.

"An exquisitely delicate comedy drama of marriage" is the way the new William De Mille Paramount production, "Lost—A Wife," which opened at the Keeney Theater Monday for the first three days of this week, is described. Adolphe Menjou, Greta Nissen and Robert Agnew are featured at the head of the cast. There are some very interesting short subjects added to the program, which include a late Keeney News, "Film Facts" and a comedy entitled "Up On the Farm." Jimmie Conners and orchestra have a very pleasing musical program.

Hester Reardon's comedy, "Seven Chances," has hit the top of the comedy field. "Seven Chances," which is presented by Joseph M. Schenck, opened a three days' engagement at the Kingston Opera House Monday and kept the audience in a continual uproar. The picture was made from the Belasco stage success of several seasons back. Plenty of very pleasing short subjects are also seen on the program.

"The Gaiety Girl" from J. A. R. White's novel, "The Inheritors" at the Auditorium this evening. This picture stars Mary Philbin who featured in "Merry-Go-Round." This film gives an interesting example of what might happen if love should fall to find a way.

Service at Stoughtonburgh. There will be preaching service in the Stoughtonburgh chapel this evening, 7:30 o'clock. The leader will be the Rev. Martin Luther of the Reformed Church, Fort Eden.

Prestige & Profit

Goods advertised in newspapers are superior to non advertised goods!

This is the conclusion of a Better Business Bureau that has been checking up newspaper advertising in an Eastern city.

Careful comparisons were made of advertised goods and similar lines that were not advertised.

In 95% of the cases, the Better Business Bureau reports, the advertised articles were superior in quality to the non-advertised articles.

Good news for newspaper readers—of course, but most of them know it by experience.

How about the national advertiser who is seeking that elusive thing called "prestige"?

A manufacturer's brands are in the best company when they are in the advertising columns of the daily newspaper. And since newspaper advertising sells goods, newspaper advertisers combine prestige with profit.

The Angel of Death

Ariel is the name of the angel who stands guard over the dying and at the moment of death, for which he watches, separates the soul from the body, according to Jewish and Mohammedan traditions.

Writer Once Pickpocket

George Barrington, the English writer, was at one time a pickpocket, and was transported to Australia in 1790. His most notable crime was robbing Prince Orloff of a snuff box worth about $120,000.

Plain Gold Ring

The wedding ring of plain gold, which is a survival of Saxon times, has outlived several attempts at change of fashion.

For instance, at the marriage of Queen Mary of England to Philip of Spain the English statesmen debated the question of the ring and wished to have it jeweled, but Mary herself intervened by declaring that she would not have it set with gems, for she chose to be wedded with a plain ring of gold like other maidens.—Pittsburgh Free Press.

Rockaways Have Big Land Boom

One Man Lost Mind When He Learned of Hotel He Sold for $42,500 was Re-sold for $55,000—Money Mad Seek Fortunes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 4.—Women were vying with men at the Rockaways today in a spectacular struggle to clean up fortunes in one of the greatest land booms in the history of the United States.

Nothing like it ever has been witnessed in this part of the country. Dozens of millionaires have been made overnight.

In its way it even outdoes Florida when it comes to quick turnovers at constantly increasing values.

Great crowds congregate daily around real estate offices which are springing up like mushrooms, a dozen a day.

Money is being made so fast, a wave of hysteria has swept the place. One man actually lost his mind temporarily when he sold his hotel for $42,500 and learned the buyer quickly re-sold it for $55,000.

Mrs. A. H. Balmuta quit her small dry goods business and almost overnight ran up a profit of $800,000.

The boom began three weeks ago when the New York board of estimate appropriated more than $1,000,000 to build a new $10,000,000 board walk which will rival that of Atlantic City. It will be nine miles in length.

Virtually every inch of property on this beach front has been sold two, three and four times over. Nearly every turnover resulted in huge profits to the sellers.

Property that three weeks ago was selling "dirt cheap" today was selling at $2,000 per foot front level.

Sales of the real estate firm of Israel Zaret aggregated nearly $4,000,000 in the last few days. The sales of Mann and Schnall yesterday totalled more than $1,000,000.

Tales of fortunes amassed overnight stagger the imagination. These stories are linked with mere tragic accounts of huge losses incurred by speculators whose timidity wouldn't let them hold on for big profits.

The man who sold his hotel for $42,000 later tried to attack his customer with a kitchen knife. That is a sample of the hysteria that exists today.

Dense crowds line the sidewalks before real estate offices. Extra police have been pressed into service to control the money mad mobs.

The crowds are growing hourly and responsible business organizations are striving with might and main to bring order out of the chaos.

FRENCH WOMAN ATTEMPTS ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Calais, Aug. 4.—The Calais-Dover boat at 1:45 this afternoon passed Mlle Sion, 48-year-old French woman, who started out from Cape Gris-Nez at 8:10 this morning to swim the English Channel. She was nine miles out from her starting place.

While the sea was calm observers on the channel boat saw that a strong tide was carrying Mlle Sion towards the North Sea and away from the Dover cliffs where she hoped to touch English soil.

Mlle. Sion, who entered the feminine channel swim competition as a "dark horse" comes from Dunkirk and while a lady's age is usually omitted from public discussion, observers here regard it as remarkable that a woman of 48 should attempt a stunt which up to last year only one man had been able to accomplish.

Today found Miss Gertrude Ederle, the American girl still waiting to make her try. Miss Ederle had set many tentative dates for her attempt only to postpone each because of the rough weather. Yesterday she hoped to make the trial today, but today her manager said she would not make the attempt until the end of the week.

Miss Lillian Harrison, the Argentine girl, already has made two attempts to cross the channel over the course in which Mlle. Sion is swimming today. She is again training for a third effort.

A & H GENERALS WON TWO MORE GAMES

The A & H Generals defeated the Benandachs twice. The scores were 5 to 3 and 5 to 3. The losing player was Emmick, catcher; Hahn, pitcher. Lineup for the winners: Malnes and P. Peters, pitchers; Krom, catcher; Malnes and Peters, first base; Steltz and P. Peters, second base; Krom, center field; Fisher, right field; Brandt, left field.

The feature of the game was two runs made by Steltz, which were scored six runs.

The A & H Generals challenge the Benandachs, Blue Sox, Saugerties and Rosendale, Hurley and Wilbur home call, 2135-J.

DEPARTMENT STORE OFFICIAL SUICIDES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 4.—Joseph Adams, 36, vice-president of a 10-department store, committed suicide today by shooting himself.

The police were not called to the store home, where Mr. Adams shot himself, and the cause of the suicide was not known.

His wife, who was away from the time of the shooting, was surprised by two brothers and four sisters, one of the latter being Mrs. John H. Adams, wife of the former mayor of New York.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Lewis York was held Monday afternoon at his late home at High Woods and was very largely attended by relatives and friends. The Rev. George W. Gulick of Ulster Park conducted the services. Interment was in the Mt. Marion Cemetery.

The funeral of Elizabeth Doyle, wife of Thomas McGann, was held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the late residence, 143 Hunter street and 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Church where a requiem Mass was offered for the repose of her soul. The services were very largely attended and the floral tributes were profuse and beautiful, testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by her many relatives and friends. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery, Barclay Heights, Saugerties.

Lansing Abel, who had been seriously ill the past few days, died at his home on Clermont street, Saugerties, Sunday afternoon. A wife, two children and a mother of Saugerties, a brother, Charles Abel, of Schenectady, and three half sisters, Mrs. Fannie Dederick of Santa Cruz, California, Mrs. Edwin Abel of Florida and Mrs. William Vedder of Saugerties survive. Mr. Abel suffered an attack of septic sore throat some time ago and then had a relapse, pneumonia developing and this brought on death. Deceased was a member of the Baptist Church. He was also a member of North American Lodge, No. 115, K. of P., and William H. Raymond Lodge, No. 59, I. O. O. F.

The funeral of John H. Tierney, who died Saturday morning after a long illness, was held from his late home, 10 Walnut street, this morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Joseph B. Scully. There were a profusion of beautiful floral tributes and a number of spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards from sorrowing relatives and friends were placed upon the casket. After the Mass St. Mary's choir sang very feelingly "Jesus, Jesus Come to Me." Members of the family acted as casket bearers. The Rev. William H. Kennedy accompanied the cortege to St. Mary's Cemetery and conducted the committal services at the grave as the body was laid to rest.

Captain Frederick Cogswell, one of the best known rivermen of his day, died Monday evening at his home in Saugerties, aged 98 years, after leading a retired life for the past twenty years. He was born in Coxsack and when a boy felt the urge of the sea and for a number of years he served as a cabin boy on the old time sailing vessels that plied the eastern seaboard of the Atlantic Ocean. As he became older he entered the employ of the Cornell Steamboat Company as a pilot and was pilot for years on the old Oswego and other boats of the line whose names have long been forgotten except among the old rivermen. During the many years he was with the towing company he became widely known along the Hudson river and was considered one of the best pilots in the business. About twenty years ago, due to advanced age, he decided to retire from active service and since then had lived in Saugerties. For several years past he had made his home with his niece, Mrs. Robert Liming of Saugerties. Captain Cogswell is the last of a family of seven children, the majority of whom followed the river. He retained his activity up to within a few years ago and was never so happy as when working in his garden or doing odd chores around the house. He is survived by two sons, John of Newport, R. I., and William of Portland, Maine, and a daughter, Mrs. Susan Tyler of Fort Edward. He is also survived by his niece and a granddaughter, Mrs. Virginia Breen of this city. The funeral will be held from the Saugerties Chapel at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. The funeral sermon will be preached by the Rev. A. T. Collier, of the Free Methodist Church.

Peter C. Osterhoudt of 116 Main street, for fifty-nine years engaged in the carpenter and contracting business in this city, died suddenly about five o'clock Monday afternoon while engaged in work in connection with the building of an addition to the residence at 152 Washington avenue. Dr. A. A. Stern was summoned and pronounced apoplexy as the cause of his death. Mr. Osterhoudt was born in Sawkill on August 26, 1843, and was married on September 20, 1876, his wife before marriage having been Caroline Eldora Smith. Fraternally Mr. Osterhoudt was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons which he joined in 1905. Recently with his son Harold C., the firm of P. C. Osterhoudt & Son, contractors and builders, was formed. He was known for the excellence of his work in building and erected a considerable number of large structures in Kingston and vicinity, and at one time was engaged by the United States government in building at West Point. He was a gentleman of the old school and his friendships were extensive. For nearly half a century he was a member of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, a deacon for years and a regular attendant at the services and a worker for the benefit of the church. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Chester S. and Harold C. Osterhoudt of this city, and two daughters, Edythe, wife of E. LeRoy Cashin of Fred Falls, and Edna, wife of Alfred D. Van Buren of New Rochelle. Mr. N. Y. also a brother, John Osterhoudt of Mt. Marion. The funeral services will be held at the Reformed Church of the Comforter Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

The Rev. James P. Hoyt, D. D., who was well known in this city, died early Monday morning at West Newton, Mass., where he was spending the summer with his wife. Dr. Hoyt was a graduate of Yale University and had been in the ministry for fifty-five years. At the time of his death he was pastor emeritus of the Congregational Church of St. Petersburg, Florida, which is the largest and strongest church of that denomination in the south.

Help For The Blind.
Governor Smith has authorized an inquiry as to the need of a State Home for the Blind, also the needs of blind persons in poor circumstances who may need financial assistance, whether under the Relief Measure for the Blind, Chapter 185, Laws of 1922, or through other sources. Any blind person who would be interested in a State Home for the Blind should write at once to the New York State Commission for the Blind, 6 East 36th street, New York city. Likewise, any blind person or a friend of a blind person, may write concerning financial need, where the income of a blind person is insufficient for maintenance. All communications should be addressed to the commission as early as possible, as all information must be obtained in due time to report to the next legislature.

denomination in the south. Prior to going to Florida some years ago, Dr. Hoyt had occupied various prominent pastorates in New York and New England. On May 25 last Dr. Hoyt was married to Mrs. Margaret Hoyt Brink of No. 55 St. James street, this city, by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. It had been intended that the wedding should take place later in the summer, but while visiting here Dr. Hoyt became ill with an attack of inflammatory arthritis, and as Mrs. Brink desired to care for him an immediate marriage was decided on. Dr. Hoyt was the author of a number of books relating to religion and on numerous other subjects to which he had devoted many years of study. He made many friends during his visits to Kingston and occupied the pulpit of one of the Kingston churches one Sunday during the spring. He had an excellent command of language which he used to good advantage in vigorously expressing his ideas, and was most entertaining as a pulpit speaker as well as in private conversation. Besides his wife, Dr. Hoyt is survived by several children by a former marriage who are prominently identified with some of the largest industrial concerns in New England and the south and with some of the leading colleges of New England. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, standard time, at Newton.

The death of Rufus Ames Hyde, M. D., Friday, July 31, came as a shock to many people of the community who had not known of his illness, although he had not been in good health for several years. Dr. Hyde was born in Eaton Rapids, Michigan, on August 20, 1859, the son of James R. Hyde, also a physician, and his wife, whose maiden name was Mary Jane Kiper. Upon his graduation from the University of Michigan in 1884, he entered upon his professional career in Eaton Rapids, helping to enlarge the field of an extensive practice begun by the elder Dr. Hyde in 1861. Here he labored, a hard working, conscientious practitioner for 34 years, until ill health forced his retirement in 1918. The doctor was for many years a trustee of the Congregational Church of Eaton Rapids and from his youth a member of the Masonic and other fraternal organizations. For the last seven years he lived in retirement from part of his family on Shagbark Farm, on the Woodstock-Saugerties road. Dr. Hyde was married in 1882 to Miss Laura May Cadwell, who survives him with the following named children: Rufus Harold Hyde of Detroit, Mrs. John F. Nicholas of Providence, R. I., and Miss Laura Elizabeth Hyde. Three surviving sisters live in Michigan. Mrs. William H. West of Springfield, Mrs. Charles A. Collier and Miss Rosalie A. Hyde of Eaton Rapids. Dr. Hyde as a man exemplified the social graces and generosity, whose foremost desire was to serve his fellow-men and rejoice in the good that he could do. Happy in home life, loved and revered by his children and devoted wife, his gracious disposition, sterling character, congenial and upon occasion humorous spirit drew about him a constantly widening circle of loyal friends on content and blessed in his comradeship that one might aptly quote the words of another when said was knit like David and Jonathan. His life was gentle and the elements to him so mixed, that nature might stand up and say that all the world, this was a man!

Brief services were held at Shagbark Farm Sunday, August 2, conducted by his son-in-law, the Rev. Dr. John F. Nicholas, recent pastor of the Woodstock Reformed Church and present pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Providence, R. I., after which the family with the remains left for the old Mt. Marion home for future funeral rites and interment.

Bill the Builder speaks up

"I HAVE gotten into the habit of putting Thatcher Steam or Hot Water Boilers in the houses I build. In my section of the country everyone has a good word for the Thatcher Boiler. It does its job 100% and hates a big coal bill like a bull hates a red rag. Sure, I have a Thatcher in my own house. - We never know a cold day indoors."

THE Thatcher Round Boiler (Steam or Hot Water) requires attention only once or twice a day to keep it firing perfectly. It is most conservatively rated, which means it holds ample heating power in reserve for unusually bitter weather. The Round Boiler is easy on the coal pile and almost runs itself.

A Weak Run Down Condition Is Your Danger Point

If you are weak, nervous, have poor blood, under weight, and no ambition, take warning - and don't delay. Many serious diseases and operations derive from this condition. Just use common sense or stop and think. Iron makes blood, extract of Cod Liver Oil builds tissues, Nux Vomica stimulates the nervous system, manganese dioxide has been employed in various skin diseases, berberine sulphate a tonic which increases the intestinal secretion and promotes the flow of bile, ginger a stimulant with any tonic, aloes a tonic and laxative.

All these ingredients are compounded in Burke's Extract of Cod Liver Oil and Iron Compound Tablets, very easy and pleasant to take. Any druggist will sell you six boxes for $5.00—fifteen weeks' treatment under a guarantee to benefit you or refund your money. One box will show improvements, but it will take six boxes to build new tissues, strengthen your nerves and make your blood red again or cost you nothing. For sale at all druggists $1.00 per box 6 boxes for $5.00 or The Heneph Co., Inc., Kingston, N.Y.

Hobbies of the Great and the Near Great

Being a Series of Intimate Glimpses Into the Fads and Foibles of Well-Known Figures in National Life.

This is the fourteenth of a series of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS.

The richest man in the senate is a "Good Samaritan" to crippled children.

This is the secret hobby of Senator James Couzens (R., of Mich.), who won recent renown by his bitter tax controversies with the treasury department. In his public career he has been associated with stupendous sums of money, with gigantic business deals and with intricate political issues, but in his private life he is revealed as a generous, warm-hearted god-father to maimed kids.

Up in Detroit, Couzens maintains a private hospital for crippled youngsters. It has every health-restorer known to science. Its doors are flung wide open to the unfortunate children of Michigan. There are free rooms, free doctors, free specialists, free operations, free treatments, free meals and free nursing. Couzens pays the bills.

Fights Disease.

The history of that institution is replete with drama. All his life, Couzens has fought with disease, particularly internal disorders. Recently he underwent several operations at a time when his friends feared he might not recover. He has never enjoyed perfect health, not even in his youth as the struggling son of poverty-stricken parents.

When fortune smiled upon him and he sold out his partnership with Henry Ford for $10,000,000, Couzens invested a part of the money in his hospital for crippled children. It stands today as a monument to health. By it Couzens hopes to give aid to others that which has been denied him.

That hospital is Couzens's great love. He keeps in personal touch with its supervision. Money is never spared in the care of the young patients. He visits it frequently to make sure the youngsters are getting proper care.

On such visits Couzens walks through the wards, showering gladness. He shakes hands with as many of the 300 inmates as can lift their arms. He pats the heads of the weighted cripples and waits kisses to those who are strapped on boards.

Keeps Hobby Secret.

He has carefully hidden this philanthropic adventure. It is a thing sacred to him. In his last political campaign his friends wanted to tell about it to reveal his human side to the electorate. Couzens heatedly declined.

"They call you a cold-blooded tax dodger," one of his managers insisted. "Let's print the truth and stop that libel."

"To hell with what they say!" was Couzens's reply. "I won't mix human welfare with politics."

No one man knows all the senator's philanthropies. He recently built three nurses' homes in Detroit at a cost of about $2,000,000. His own hospital originally cost $1,000,000, and it costs many tens of thousands annually in upkeep. He gave a $100,000 fund recently to establish wounded soldiers in business. His charities total an amazing sum and they favor either unfortunate children or crippled adults.

Money Worries Him.

A multi-millionaire several times over, Couzens makes no display of his wealth. There is no liveried chauffeur, no footman or butler in his home. He has the appearance of a small-town business man, though his strong face reflects exceptional ability. His money is a source of worry to him, and only by his philanthropies has it brought him happiness.

To a poor newspaperman he recently said: "You get more fun out of life than I do. Money may have given me power, but it hasn't given me happiness."

For recreation Couzens recently took up golf. He goes out on the links with senatorial fournesses and uses a business system in his golf. His shots are short, his stroke methodical. He never gets distance, but he never gets in the rough. His average score is around 95—pretty good.

Of his golfing he recently said: "The thing that makes me sore about my golf is that I don't play a better game today than I did yesterday."

Stickler for Data.

At his office Couzens is a stickler on facts. He once employed an army of accountants to supply him with data to use in his tax controversy with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He wanted the facts, and he spent a small fortune to get them. All in all, he is thoroughly businesslike, with an outlook on life influenced more by his needy youth than by his recent years of great wealth. His viewpoint is best illustrated by an order he gave his secretaries to "favor" all letters written him either in pencil or ink.

"I want the man who is too poor to hire a stenographer or typewriter to be given first consideration," said Couzens. "It is the poor who give me the real views of the masses of the people."

Tomorrow—Senator Morris Stephens.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TWO GIANTS

Old Mr. Giant had been invited by Mother Nature to take Billie Brownie's place one day to go a-calling on some of the members of her family.

Billie Brownie had been delighted to let Old Mr. Giant go in his place.

Old Mr. Giant as a rule liked to stay home in Fairyland better than to go on journeys. Of course he traveled a great deal about Fairyland, but he didn't go forth into the people's world.

However, when Mother Nature told him that the Giant Sunflowers wanted to see a giant, he accepted the invitation.

He took his old, crooked stick and put on his best high hat, which only made him look taller than ever. But Mother Nature had said:

"Look your tallest. They want to see a real giant."

It was early, early in the morning when Mr. Giant went forth. The dew was still on the ground, but he was wearing his thick great boots so he didn't notice such little things as dew-drops upon them.

He hadn't very far to go when he met a great row of Giant Sunflowers.

"Ah, welcome, friends and brothers," said Old Mr. Giant.

"Ah, welcome, Great Giant," said the Giant Sunflowers.

They beamed at him and their great, broad, golden faces looked very smiling and proud and pleased.

"One of us is going to talk for all of us," the Giant Sunflowers said in chorus.

Then one Giant Sunflower spoke. He was the tallest of all. He was very, very huge and his height was very great. He was just even with Old Mr. Giant, and these two huge, tall creatures talked to each other.

"I'm the Giant of Fairyland," said Old Mr. Giant. "I live in a big friendly cave and the little Fairies, Elves, Brownies, Gnomes, Bogies, members of the Oaf family, Old Witty Witch and all of the others come to see me."

I tell them stories of the olden days when there were giants about. I tell them tales my father and grandfather and Great-Grandfather Giant told me when I was but a little boy giant and not a big man giant such as I am now.

"They were fine old tales they had to tell me and I pass them on to those in Fairyland."

"But I want to hear about you, Great Giant Sunflower."

The Giant Sunflower bowed a dignified, majestic bow and began:

"Years ago," he said, "the Indians cultivated members of my family."

"We were prairie flowers, as no doubt you know. We call ourselves our home."

"In those days our plants were of use, our leaves gave food to cattle, our flowers gave a color dye and our seeds fed pigs and chickens and hens and roosters and such animals."

"We used to be here, too, in the old days when the land belonged to the Indians."

"We lived here as a family before others did. We truly belong to the land."

"So we have grown big as we feel entitled to be big."

"We were big then, too."

"Oh, years and years ago, our families knew Indian life as members of our family today know the life among the palefaces as the Indians called them."

"Tell your Fairyland people that we do belong to this land. They cultivated us in Europe after this."

"But North America, we feel, is very much our own. As one giant to another, you understand, my talk is big. I hope it does not sound conceited but only quite fitting."

"Quite fitting," said Old Mr. Giant. "And only justly proud."

GAS BUGGIES—Women Aren't the Only Ones to Change Their Mind.

THE LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Cause of French and Indian War.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

By the middle of the eighteenth century the English colonies came to realize just how seriously their growth was blocked by the French, whose possessions hemmed them in from the St. Lawrence to the Gulf of Mexico.

IT WAS INEVITABLE THAT THESE TWO POWERS SHOULD BE AT WAR UNTIL ONE OF THEM HAD GAINED THE SUPREMACY IN AMERICA.

AWARE OF THIS FACT, BOTH SIDES PREPARED FOR A GREAT STRUGGLE.

THESE RIVAL COLONISTS WERE VASTLY DIFFERENT IN EVERY RESPECT. THE FRENCH COLONISTS WERE SCATTERED OVER A VAST WILDERNESS, LIVING UNDER AN ABSOLUTE GOVERNMENT, WITH BUT LITTLE FARMING, AND FEW SETTLED COMMUNITIES.

ON THE OTHER HAND, THE ENGLISH COLONISTS WERE ORGANIZED IN SOLID COMMUNITIES DEVOTED TO FARMING AND INDUSTRY, AND WERE A SELF-GOVERNING, HOME-LOVING PEOPLE.

WHILE OUTNUMBERED, THE FRENCH KNEW THAT IF THE ENGLISH TOOK THE OFFENSIVE THEY WOULD HAVE TO CROSS THE MOUNTAINS AND FIGHT ON STRANGE GROUND WHICH WOULD GIVE THE FRENCH THE ADVANTAGE. TO PROTECT THEIR FRONTIER THEY BUILT THE FORTS OF CROWN POINT AND TICONDEROGA ON LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

PICNIC TIME

At this season of the year when little trips into the country are such a joy, the need of a variety of sandwiches is felt. Here are a few suggestions:

Fried Egg Sandwich.—This made and served at once is a most filling sandwich. Butter bread, cook an egg in butter in the frying pan, lay a thin slice of onion on the buttered bread, then place the egg, another slice of onion and the top slice; it is now ready to "fall to."

Tomato Club Sandwich.—Lay thick slices of tomato on slices of buttered toast, sprinkle with salt and pepper, finely minced olives and parsley, add a layer of thin, nicely cooked bacon and cover with another slice of toast.

Russian Egg Sandwiches.—Chop three hard-cooked eggs and mix with the following dressing: Add chopped pickle, pepper or chili sauce to mayonnaise, using about four tablespoonsfuls, enough to make the mixture the consistency to spread.

Italian Sandwiches.—To chili sauce, mayonnaise, chopped ham, celery, mustard and cayenne, add salt if needed and spread on whole wheat bread.

Salmon Sandwiches.—Shred a cupful of salmon, add a tablespoonful of chopped capers, a tablespoonful of chopped sour pickles and four tablespoonsfuls of mayonnaise. Cut into shapes and wrap each in waxed paper.

Tomato and Cucumber Salad.—Prepare small-sized tomatoes by scoping out the pulp and draining the cups. Chop one small cucumber and a tablespoonful of onion with a little chopped celery. Fill the cups, using some of the pulp removed. The remaining pulp may be used in various dishes, as soup or molded salads. Mix the filling with a highly-seasoned salad dressing, finish the top with a spoonful of thick mayonnaise and sprinkle with finely minced chives or green pepper. The tomatoes may be arranged on lettuce, endive, watercress or a nasturtium leaf.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 4.—Stocks of the industrial and motor companies pushed forward aggressively to higher prices today. Then weakness in oil and equipments stocks held back the movement in the first part of the session, but these stocks were promptly side tracked.

The bullish pools were not disturbed by the rise in call loan rate or the heavy accumulation of profit takings in the industrial stocks. American Can, National Lead and numerous high priced stocks were pushed through their former peaks. General Motors continued its advance to 91 1/2, for a total gain of about 23 points with hardly a setback.

The movement in motor stocks has apparently not reached its climax. Stocks of the leading truck manufacturers, including Mack and White, moved up about 4 points each in active trading, and Nash Motors, in the high priced division, jumped 12 points to 420, a gain of 33 points from yesterday's slump.

National Lead, American Sugar, Texas Gulf, Sulphur, New York Cammers, Schulte Stores, Associated Drygoods, American Smelting and other popular priced stocks were firm all through the session.

STATE TROOPERS CAPTURE GUN RUNNERS AND AVE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ontario, N. Y., Aug. 4.—In a gun battle between rum runners and State Troopers on the shore of Lake Ontario, today, five members of the liquor boat's crew were captured and 500 cases of Canadian ale confiscated.

Troopers Forrest Loman and Norton Phillips received word that a rum boat was landing and laid in ambush. They allowed a row boat from the lake runner to land and then called on the crew to surrender. A volley of shots answered them, but after a sharp exchange of shots the crew submitted to capture.

All of the prisoners gave their homes as Rochester.

There Were Others

The young man hesitatingly entered her father's presence. With a preliminary clearing of the throat and a nervous twitch of his fingers, he said: "I have come to ask you if I may marry your daughter, Gertrude."

"You may," said the father, promptly, as he passed the cigars. "And now that you're in the family, may I take you into my confidence?"

"Why—yes," exclaimed the happy man.

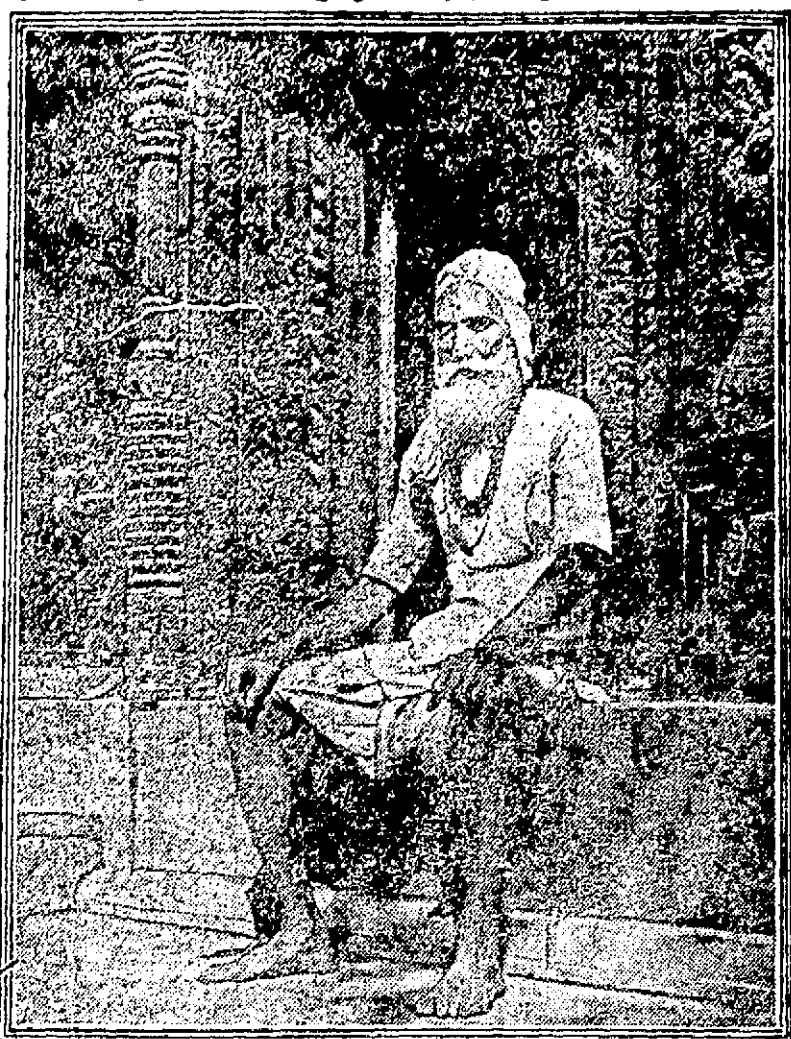

"Well, my boy," said his future father-in-law, "I just want to say that as you pass around among your friends I wish you'd let some of them excited about Margaret, Dorothy, Della and Nancy. And put a couple of cigars in your pocket."

State's Nickname

New York was at one time frequently referred to as the "Excelsior State" on account of the motto "Excelsior"—a Latin word that means still higher, ever upward—which appears on its official state seal.

India's Main Street

A Temple Guardian of Benares.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.

W

AT might be called "the Main Street of India" is the great roadway of the ages, roughly paralleling the foothills of the Himalayas, that stretches through the heart of Hindustan from the Afghanistan border in the west to the east coast. There is nothing provincial about India's Main Street. Starting at the Khyber pass, where the Afghan caravans weave a tenuous thread of trade between the frontier hills, it runs to Calcutta, where a goodly share of the world's shipping is idly swinging to the tides of the treacherous Hooghly.

The railways which parallel its more than 1,500 miles, as they parallel many of our own best highways, have diverted much traffic from the open road and cooped it up like crated fowls in third-class cars. But the bullock-cart still rolls on and the motorcar has made its presence smelted from the northwest frontier province to Bengal.

The "broad road" of Kipling's lama and his adventurous chela, Kim, runs through one of the most thickly populated regions in the world. It is a plain road from beginning to end. From the mud fort of Jamrud to the docks at Kidderpore, this highway is a low way. It passes over the watershed between the Indus and the Ganges at an altitude of less than a thousand feet, and thence runs along with the Jumna or the Ganges to the delta of the river in the midst of which Calcutta proudly reigns as queen.

To the left, throughout the length of the road, are the eternal hills, beyond which the snow wall of the world's mightiest mountains can sometimes be seen. To the right is the jungle of low hills which bear various names, but which, if the peninsula of India were slightly lowered, would form the irregular northern base of an arrow-shaped island, with its point at Cape Comorin, opposite Ceylon.

Although Main Street runs through a region of rivers, let us not think of it as a garden land; for during much of the year it is dusty and dry and at no time does it have the lush loveliness which dots the hot southland with scenes of refreshing beauty. Throughout most of its length irrigation has been developed to a high degree.

Hot and Cold, Dry and Wet.

From the arid furnace of All Sahel, in the Khyber, to the steamy Sunderbans, this road is deadly hot at times; yet along the watershed between India's two most famous rivers the nights in winter can be bitter cold, even for those Mongolian peoples whose heavy costumes remind one of the Himalayan snows, whence they come.

Main Street runs from the aridity of less than ten inches of rain annually, near the Afghan border, to the region of 75 inches, beside the lower Ganges; and were it to be continued farther, it would seek in the rains of Chittagong or Cherrapunji, where Jupiter Pluvius is always wringing out his heavy clouds like washed towels, and where in July, 1881, rain fell at the rate of one foot a day. Cherrapunji is accustomed to this form of hydraulic mining, which is wearing down the Ganges and the hills, but with 75 feet of rain in twelve months, 1881 was known, even among those to whom rain is no novelty, as the year of the big rain.

The arid plain which flanks the great Indus highway the mean annual temperature is between 75 and 78 degrees. In May the mean thermometer of all India runs so directly over the Grand Trunk road that one would think that by stepping into the fields on either side he would run off his 88 degrees to 855 on the right toward the hot heart of the continental land-mass and 855 on the left as he turned aside toward the hill stations and breezeways which line the lower slopes of the Himalayas from Murree to Darjeeling.

Races are strung out along the road like ethnological exhibits, but the constant flow of life along this boulevard of people is such that the various stages in the transition, from the Turko-Indians, whose handsome faces the Kabul bazaar at Peshawar, to the Mongolo-Dravidians, who dominate the racial complex of cosmopolitan Calcutta, are difficult for the stranger to detect.

Many Races and Tongues.

From the Pashto of Peshawar, which a Persian can understand, one enters the linguistic area of Lahnda, or Western Punjabi, with plenty of Kashmiri, another of the Outer-Aryan tongues, heard in the Rawalpindi bazaar. Then Punjabi, shading off to Hindustani, the lingua franca of a much larger region than that where it is common speech. Eastern Hindi, Bihari, and Bengali complete the needs of the man who would thread the road from Peshawar to Calcutta and understand the general conversation throughout.

Along the whole road, one finds Hindus and Mohammedans in imposing proportions. Between Lahore and Delhi the Sikhs, with their military bearing, Greek noses, and uncut hair, reveal themselves in considerable numbers, and at Buddhi Gaya the yellow robe of the Buddhist adds a touch of variety to the religious complex.

A book could be written about each of the cities and great geographical features along India's Main Street. There is the Khyber pass, road to central Asia, reaching with history and romance, the military, political and ethical key to India. Peshawar, at its Indian end, is the first market for the rich carpets from Bokhara and Merv and Afghanistan; for bright copper trays, sheer velvets and scores of other fascinating wares that come out of the north.

Rawalpindi, a little farther to the east, is the gateway to charming Kashmir and entrepot for its shawls, not so fine as those of old, but still things of beauty. There is Lahore, capital of the Punjab; and Amritsar, where carpets are known to all the world and which is the Mecca and Jerusalem of the state Sikhs.

When it comes to visitors, Delhi stands in a class by itself. Benares is a religious edifice with running water laid on. The Meila ground at Allahabad is a hive of Hindu pilgrims. But Delhi attracts great numbers of visitors whose interest is not in temple or mosque, but in the historical buildings of the fortress.

Where Hindus Prefer to Die.

Beyond Delhi lies Agra of the wonderful Taj Mahal, most beautiful of the world's memorials; Allahabad, where the sacred Ganges and almost equally sacred Jumna meet; and Benares. From a religious point of view Benares is a city of perpetual piety; physically it is a crescent waterfront on a silt stream backed by a malarious city. The river front is lined with a succession of ghats or huge stairways, and palaces which make it a vision of beauty. But unfortunately Benares is the favorite place for Hindus to die. The thousands of them go there for that purpose and their half-charred bodies are consigned to the waters of the Ganges.

After Lahore and Benares, after the gay colors of Amritsar and the dunes of Allahabad, Calcutta is of little interest. The decks teem with life in spite of insistent resultant upon the mystery of foreign exchange.

The district made infamous by the Black Hole is now as imposing with solid-looking bank buildings as any Occidental financial district, and no more so. Kalighat almost, but not quite, reminds one of Benares. The theaters played, but not quite, recall Piffardilly Circus or Times square. Tel Calcutta, queen city of India is proud of herself. "Second City of the Empire" is a phrase which is always left in type by the Calcutta papers.

No Freight Rate Reduction Yet

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 4.—

Freight rate reduction, in the opinion of President Coolidge, will be impossible until the consolidation of the railroads has been effected in such fashion as to strengthen the weaker systems.

A spokesman for the president, discussing the freight rate problem at White Court today, declared that Mr. Coolidge is most anxious that the country be relieved from the existing high rate schedules. His concern particularly is for the agricultural interests.

That the railroads, which are now sitting back awaiting developments, should undertake consolidation of their own accord in the interests of economy without waiting for any governmental action, seems to be the feeling of the president.

While legislation might be helpful for the more economical operation of the railroads, relief of the shipper with ultimate benefit to the consumer, the public, could be accomplished by the railroads themselves. Senator Cummins of Iowa, who has been in conference with the president, will hesitate to introduce regulatory legislation until the expected mergers have taken shape.

Senator Cummins is chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce. Both the president and Senator Cummins are awaiting with interest the report of the railroad fact finding commission soon to be rendered.

First Mortgage and Leasehold Secured

6 1/2% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

DATED AUGUST 1ST, 1925

DUE AUGUST 1ST, 1945

Security: In the opinion of counsel these bonds are a direct first mortgage lien on The Thayer Hotel which is to be a modern fireproof five and one-half story and basement structure of steel and reinforced concrete and the leasehold. The building and leasehold have been appraised by Messrs. Chas. F. Noyes & Co. and Joseph P. Day, Inc. at $1,710,000 and $1,703,345.

Earnings: Net earnings from the property, available for interest on these bonds, but before depreciation and Federal income taxes, have been conservatively estimated by competent hotel men to be $355,504, a sum equal to more than 5 1/2 times the maximum annual interest requirements of all outstanding bonds.

Lease Provisions: A 7 acre tract in the southern end of the United States Military Academy Reservation has been leased to the corporation by the U. S. Government, for hotel purposes, for a period of fifty years, free of all rentals and with sundry other advantages. The property is also exempt from all real estate taxes.

The United States Government agrees not to grant any other hotel concession on the reservation during the period of the lease without first purchasing the hotel building, equipment and furnishings at the then fair value, and also agrees to purchase the entire property at just compensation upon the expiration of the lease.

Haynes Shorn of More Power

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Prohibition

Commissioner Roy A. Haynes was relegated still further into the background of the new enforcement regime today when supervision of the entire Detroit River section was taken from him and placed under Collector of Internal Revenue C. D. Ferguson of Detroit. This is one of the territories in which smuggling has been rampant.

Both the NA-2 and the NA-3 have taken short test hops, carrying MacMillan and other officers of the expedition. NA-2 was forced to land after thirty minutes.

de la Vergne-Dodge.

There occurred this morning at eleven o'clock a quiet wedding at St. Paul's Chapel, Columbia University, New York city, which is of much interest to Kingston people. At that hour Miss Carol Waters Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hatton Dodge of Little Rock, Arkansas, became the bride of Charles H. de la Vergne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. de la Vergne of this city, the ceremony being performed by Chaplain Knox of Columbia University in the presence of only the immediate families of the bride and groom.

William Winston of Saugerties was Mr. de la Vergne's best man. The bride studied at the University and for several years has made her home in New York city.

Mr. de la Vergne was an aviator in the World War. He enlisted in Canada and received his preliminary training there after which he was sent overseas. Commissioned as a Lieutenant in the Royal Air Force, he completed training for the front at the famous Central Flying School at Upavon, England. He is a member of the last class to receive graduation diplomas from Kingston Academy and is also a graduate of Union College and the Columbia Law School. He is now connected with the law firm of Bigham, Englar and Jones of New York city.

K. G. & E. Downed The Universals

The Kingston Gas and Electric Company team had as their guests at the Athletic Field Monday evening the Universal Road Machinery Company outfit. The gas team let loose with their big guns and after the smoke cleared away the gas team had squandered 23 runs while the road machine builders had hung up only 5 markers.

INDUSTRIAL GAME AT ATHLETIC FIELD TONIGHT

Tonight the Freeman Publishing Company team and the Schilling Furniture Company team will meet at the Athletic Field. Huber will preside on the mound for the printers with Reis as his mate while Williams will twirl for the furniture makers with Didzek receiving his offerings.

At a meeting Monday evening of the Board of Managers of the Industrial League it was decided that five innings should constitute a game and that all games staged at the Athletic Field should begin at 6:15 o'clock. The Free-Kingston G. & E. game which was protested has been awarded to the Freeman team.

Walden at Fair Grounds Tonight

A month or so ago a team visited Kingston from Maybrook representing Walden. This club gave the local fans a surprise for somehow or other they managed to seize the ball game and took it back with them. The game ended 3 to 1.

The Colonials have booked this very same club tonight in order to even up for this surprise defeat but this club still has the idea that they can whip the Colonials and will try to make it a second win tonight. Lefty Lillis who only allowed five hits with this club last time will be the probable twirler for the Waldenites this evening. Art Smith will probably begin on the mound for the locals but if two days rest is not sufficient to put him in shape Maury McDermott will be the possible pitcher. Maury who has been parking himself on the initial sack since early in the season has not been working on the mound for a good many games.

Wednesday the locals will take a journey to Port Jervis for a two days battle with the team of that place. On Friday the locals will return for their sixth match with the Chapple Johnson All-Stars who will be at the Fair Grounds on that day. On Saturday the locals will go to Peekskill and mix with the strong team there.

Herman Trounced Hurley.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 4.—Babe Herman, California featherweight, carefully put up his title "shot" with Kid Kaplan in preserve for future use by beating Lew Hurley all the way in a ten round bout at the Queensboro, A. C., last night. A defeat would have lost Herman his contract with Kaplan for a featherweight championship bout at Waterbury, Conn., on August 27.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Athletics cemented a former friendship with first place by getting a twelve inning decision over the White Sox, 3 to 2, Miller defeating Eddie Collins' throw to the plate for the winning run.

Eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and a game for a game. The Pirates got ample revenge on the Phils for the double drubbing the latter handed out on Saturday by taking two games from the Fletcher entry by the same score, 3 to 2, increasing their league lead to 1½ games.

Coveleskie's thirteen straight jinx again played him ill, Holloway outpitching the Pole and the Tigers beating the Senators 3 to 2.

The Cardinals twice came from behind to take the lead from the Giants, the second time proving it, 7 to 6.

Jones had a slight edge on Buckeye and the Yanks' early hitting gained a 3 to 2 decision over the Indians. Buckeye thrice struck out our Mr. Ruth.

Bunched hits and a double steal in the sixth, plus Cooney's pitching, gave the Braves a 3 to 1 verdict over the Reds.

The Dodgers made three homers off Blake but otherwise had nothing to say for publication and the Cubs won, 7 to 4.

Robbing the poor box and throwing the cripple's crutch away, the Browns picked on the helpless Red Sox and won, 12 to 4.

Active Newspaper Man in Professional Baseball

In Southpaw Stanwood Fulton Baumgartner, the Athletics have one of the few active newspaper men in professional baseball. Numerous players have taken to writing after they quit the diamond, or had special stuff under their signatures during the world series games, but Baumgartner is the real thing. He was the correspondent for a Philadelphia daily, covering his team's activities at the Ft. Myers (Fla.) training camp, and he still keeps his hands in typewriter practice. A University of Chicago graduate, he intends to make newspaper work—and not necessarily the sporting end of it—his life work after he has laid aside his glove and uniform. He is now enjoying a splendid major league come-back. He was with the Phillies several years ago and then dropped to the minors. Last year he came up to the big show again and made good for Connie Mack, and promises to give much help to Gray, Rummel, Harris and Groves in the A's battling with the Senators and Indians.

Jonathan Brooks, more popularly known as "Mandy," recently secured by the Chicago Cubs, is hitting the ball at a terrific rate. He is fast on the paths and fields cleverly. He comes from Columbus, Ohio.

COLUMBIANS WIN AGAIN.

Local Nine Whipped Nonpareils of Waterbury.

The Columbian Baseball Club travelled to Waterbury, Conn., Sunday where they easily defeated the Nonpareils Club by a score of 7 to 2. Sunday's game made the second time the Columbians were the victors over this club. Smith pitching for the local club allowed but three hits and struck out 14 men also connecting for a home run in the seventh with one on. Teesra and Stanton were both hit hard during the contest, a total of 13 hits being collected.

Manager Marvin is in touch with Woodstock Club for a game next Sunday.

Scotch Terrier Aids Golfer Make Birdie

While playing a round with his brother, D. M. Wolf and Cecil Spedden, in the qualification round of a recent tournament, J. H. Lassell of the Maryland Country club became a principal in a unique golf situation.

Lassell was on the second green in two and had a 15-foot putt for his birdie 3. Just as he tapped the ball with his putter a small Scotch terrier, which had been lying down on the green just off the carpet, dashed on to the sward, skidded across the green and seized the ball a short distance from the cup.

The next instant the dog had dropped the gutta percha into the cup. There has been a great deal of argument since as to just how many strokes Lassell should have credited himself for the hole.

JENNINGS ALLOWS GIANTS TO THINK

Players Act Pretty Much on Their Own Initiative in Game.

Rogers Hornsby, when he took over the management of the St. Louis Cardinals, said he was going to operate on the theory that every one of his men knew how to play his position and was qualified to do a little thinking of his own. Hornsby has the sound argument that his players can handle their own position, or they wouldn't be in the big leagues and he is smart enough to let his players know that he does not aspire to become a "master mind."

John McGraw's claim that in the world's series games of the past four years he ordered every ball that was thrown by his pitchers and directed every play that was made on the defense, started a lot of speculation about the wisdom of "master minding."

Some competent baseball men said that McGraw was trying to throw off the opposition by his claim of "master minding" and that he was trying to focus the enemy observation on him so that the signals, if any, could be passed from some other player.

Others insisted that McGraw was serious in taking the responsibility entirely on his shoulders and denying the players any initiative. But regardless of his motives, the team won four pennants, although the master mind could not win every game for his club.

Early this season, McGraw was laid up with a severe cold and the team was handled for weeks by Hugh Jennings, the former manager of the Detroit Tigers, who has been acting as McGraw's assistant for several years. It was apparent to all of those who observed the team that Jennings was not "master minding" and that the players were acting a lot on their own. The team played just as well for Jennings as it did for McGraw.

Big Peril to Hurlers
